I want to strongly oppose the plan to dump nuclear waste in Yucca Mountain.

The notion of placing toxic nuclear materials into an underground site which is prone to earthquakes, is infiltrated by groundwater, and whose passages have not been fully mapped is the height of irresponsibility. Once these materials have contaminated the area there will be no possibility of restoration. It is therefore imperative that we do not make this dreadful mistake, whose repercussions will last for thousands of years. Another storage option must be found, and the burden for finding it should be imposed upon the corporations which created the waste rather than the American taxpayers and the Nevada environment.
